

Attention Juniors, Seniors,
and College Students

INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITY

The Arizona Cattle Growers, in partnership with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), is seeking interested current students to apply for an amazing 2023 summer internship.

About the Internship

This full-time paid summer internship will begin at the end of May for eight weeks at either the Holbrook or Willcox NRCS Field Office. An intern will learn and gain experience from a Rangeland Management Specialist who gives support to local conservation efforts that benefit communities, natural resources, and the nation's economy. An intern will work hand-in-hand with producers, landowners, and partners to implement voluntary conservation practices that work for agricultural operations and the environment. An intern will understand grazing systems that improve forage quality and other grazing land functions. For more information on USDA-NRCS, visit www.nrcs.usda.gov/careers.
